UN TROOPS GAIN UP TO 3 MILES IN A RENEWED PUSH OVER SLEET-LASHED FIELDS BEYOND CHONGCHON RIVER BRIDGEHEAD; "RED" RESISTANCE HARDENS IN NORTHWEST

American Troops Make Advances Above The Ungi River

PRESSURE IS SEVERE

Powerful Enemy Troops Battered by U. S. Planes and Warships

By Irving R. Levine
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Nov. 16—(INS)—United Nations troops gained up to nearly three miles today in a renewed push over sleet-lashed fields beyond the Chongchong river bridgehead in Korea's vital northwest sector.

In the northeast the resistance of Chinese and North Korean Communist forces hardened along the entire frozen 10th Corps front. But American troops in one area advanced to a point two and a half miles above the Ungi river.

South Korean units both in the central and the far northeast coastal sector remained under severe pressure by powerful enemy troops which were being battered by American planes and warships.

Taking advantage of a slight break in the cold wave that boosted temperatures from the zero to the freezing level, UN forces in the northwest resumed their limited offensive toward hubs controlling the main roads to Manchuria.

Australian and British troops of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade captured the enemy - abandoned road center of Pakchon and pushed north another 2,000 yards to the confluence of the Taeryong and Kyerichon rivers.

They then sent patrols thrusting 3,000 yards farther north. Their steady advance encountered no opposition except from some 200 Red soldiers who had fled north of Pakchon from positions burned out by American jetted gasoline bombs.

The British-Australian gains, reported at 5.59 p. m. Thursday (3.59 a. m. EST) in front dispatch by International News Service War

Junior Red Cross Drive Is Now Nearing Close

In the Bristol district, where Mrs. William G. Louden is the chairman of Junior Red Cross activities, the contribution drive is nearing its close, and by the end of November, the amounts received will be announced. Leaders feel that the junior group is one of the most important divisions of the Red Cross work.

The funds collected from the children throughout Bristol district are used for welfare of children in the district. The purchase of clothing and milk for those who would not have these things; dental care, psychiatric help, and many other items are supplied from this fund.

The activity at present is filling gift boxes for Christmas to be distributed to children abroad. Mrs. Louden has received many well-packed boxes, eagerly awaited by school children of devastated countries. This year a share of these boxes will go to Korea.

After Christmas, making useful and novel gifts for servicemen in the hospitals will be on the program.

The schools, through Junior Red Cross, are eligible to receive on loan, films covering many subjects, and study kits on various countries, handsomely filled with fascinating articles.

CENSUS AND ELECTIONS

The decennial census of the United States provides a wealth of information for government officials and collegiate debaters. It deals a blow to the pride of some states and a boost to others. It also is responsible for political headaches. It costs the taxpayers $100,000,000.

After each decennial census, Congress is required by law to reapportion seats in the House in conformity with population. This is done by an ingenious mathematical formula which comes as close to perfection as can be done without giving any state a fraction of a representative.

Some of the perfection is lost because when the number of Representatives allotted is changed, redistricting is left to the states, many of which go in for gerrymandering instead of equalization. Reapportionment also reflects presidential elections. The number of electors for each state equals the sum of its members of the House and Senate. Hence the changes to be made in the House representation of 16 states will be felt in the presidential contest in 1952. But which party will they favor?

Unless Congress increases the number of House seats—considered extremely unlikely—California will have seven more seats after reapportionment, Florida two, Maryland, Michigan, Texas, Virginia one each. Pennsylvania will lose three; New York, Missouri and Oklahoma, two each; Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee one each.

If such an apportionment had been in effect in 1948, Truman would have had three more electoral votes, Dewey three less. In 1928 it would have helped the Republicans. In neither case would it have changed the outcome. But the states which voted Republican in the last really close election, that of 1916, will have 24 more electoral votes in 1952, the states that voted Democratic 24 fewer. If the 1952 distribution of electoral votes had prevailed in 1916, Wilson would have lost. Instead of beating Hughes by an electoral vote of 277 to 254, he would have been defeated, 278 to 253.

Who can say this would not have changed the course of United States history?

Flying saucers will be offered by toy departments this Christmas, and junior will be disappointed if he doesn't get a little giant atomic kit.

A preliminary report says $3,000,000 was spent in the congressional campaign but this does not include the billions paid federal employees from taxpayers' funds.

Normalcy will be back again when nothing seems as important as the football scores.

In Barnum's day a sucker was born every minute, but now Uncle Sam has taken over the job for most of them.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"
By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 — Jack Kroll, director of the C.I.O. political action committee, has been a very nervous man since November 7. Kroll must go on the carpet soon to explain to C.I.O. labor bosses why his campaign to defeat Senator Robert A. Taft and others was such a bust.

In 1948, when the democrats recaptured control of congress, Kroll and the P.A.C. took bows far and wide for having delivered the vote. As a result, the C.I.O. bosses dreamed up a $1 assessment on all union members to build up an anti-Taft kitty for this year. This amounted to several million dollars. Most of it was spent and Kroll has nothing to show for it but a bad case of the jitters. In 1948 he was willing to take credit for victory. It will be interesting now to see if he steps up and shoulders the blame for 1950. He has not done it so far.

The story in the Senate, where candidates of labor bosses bit the dust, is only part of the story. Had it been to lose Lucas of Illinois, Myers of Pennsylvania, and Thomas of Utah, in addition to taking a drubbing from Taft, union-backed candidates in governorship races took a worse shellacking.

Out of 29 labor-boss-backed candidates for governor, only two were elected. These were in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. The A. F. of L. matched the C.I.O. political spending during the campaign, and an accounting is due here also. That there will be one or two "goats" fired from the political organizations of the labor bosses is a foregone conclusion. It will have to be done to quiet the rank and file, who were forced to kick in but given no choice in selecting the candidates. It is equally clear that the choice of the union bosses was not the same for the rank and file. The voting results demonstrate that.

Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O., and William Green, A. F. of L. boss, did much breast-beating and fist-shaking about what they were going to do to Taft. Both served loud public notice that they were going to spend all the money needed to lick him. And they did spend a lot. The outcome, however, proved conclusively that money is not enough and there are strong indications that the extreme lengths to which they went to get Taft boomeranged badly and helped him, instead. Remember, six years before, Taft squeaked through with a slender 17,000 vote majority. This time it was 440,000. That ought to prove something, even to the labor bosses themselves.

Taft, of course, was labor's target No. 1. The sleeper that really jarred Kroll's back teeth, however, was the defeat of Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah. Union bosses never had a better friend in either house of congress than Thomas. As head of the Senate Labor Committee he was in a powerful position to help them, and did so constantly, to the extent of being a virtual puppet of Green, Murray, and Co.

On the other hand, Taft is the ranking minority member on that same committee, and as such has been duelling with Thomas for years. Thus, the Taft victory and the Thomas defeat were twin blows for the labor bosses that will not soon be forgotten.

The most disastrous angle of the election outcome for Green and Murray, however, is the inevitable effect their fiasco will have on their standing and influence at the White House, in congress, and in Democratic party councils.

In the past, particularly since 1948, they have virtually dictated Truman's domestic policy, not alone on labor matters but on everything. The Brannan farm plan, the Ewing socialized medicine scheme, the continued rent control, the other economic control programs, the federal housing program—all were concoctions dished up on the demand of the labor big-shots.

It required considerable sacrifice on the part of the President and party leaders to accept the dictates in these and many other cases, because the Dixie faction of the party was solidly against them. The non-radical element throughout the rest of the Democratic party likewise was opposed. The policies produced perpetual friction, inner revolts and general trouble. But the party leaders still figured it was worthwhile in order to get the big "labor vote."

Comes November 7, and it develops that the union bosses have no such labor vote to deliver. And the proof was particularly eloquent in the very fighting ground which they themselves chose: Ohio.

They lost every union stronghold and every county in the state, except two mining counties, the city of Ironton and the Democratic stronghold, Pike county, a farm county where the Democrats as such have a powerful organization. Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Canton, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, all heavily unionized centers, went to the bosses' arch-enemy, Taft. So did all the small towns. Cuyahoga county, which they boasted they would carry by 150,000, went to Taft by 10,000.

And comes also, now, the reckoning. There has been some stupid leadership in the top side of the Democratic party, but not so stupid as to sit by and continue to have the party torn apart in order to satisfy a handful of political pluggies who have nothing to deliver. Even the likes of William O. Boyle, Jr., Democratic national chairman, can see there is no profit in that. And Mr. Jack Kroll is the man who's responsible for it all. There's good reason for him to be nervous.

ated Game Protector Flack's statement.

A Springtown man, Percy Albee, will inherit $10,000 from the estate of his aunt, the late Mrs. Laura F. Albee, Larchmont, N. Y. The estate was appraised in New York by the New York State Transfer Tax Department at $4,717,329, gross value, and $4,237,272 net, the bulk of it in stocks and bonds.

The bulk of the estate goes to two children, Reed A. Albee, Larchmont, and Mrs. Ethel A. Vigoroux, New York.

Mrs. Albee, who died at 85 on June 13, 1947, was the widow of Edward F. Albee, president and co-founder of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum chain of vaudeville theaters.

State Police of the Doylestown sub-station investigated two accidents over the week-end. A car school bus "stop" sign collision was investigated by Trooper Boles.

Two vehicles, a truck, operated by Vernon B. Horn, 18, Chalfont, and a car driven by Harold Foster, Paterson, N. J., figured in an accident Sunday afternoon about 1:30.

Trooper Edward Gunster reported the New Jersey man's car was parked and the Chalfont youth's truck, making the turn from Route 202 into Bristol road, too sweeping.

Bristol Twp. Elementary School
Edgely Intermediate

A hobby club was organized by one of the fifth grades in Edgely school. Officers were chosen for the year. Ronald Katz was elected president with the following to help him: vice-president, Evelyn Sabatini; secretary, John Burton; treasurer, "Betipat" Walterick. The purpose of the club is to help all students to find something worthwhile to do in their spare-time. A display of their results will be shown in the near future.

The annual poster contest was held last week under auspices of East Bristol Twp. Parent-Teacher Association. A prize was given to the student in each room producing the best poster. These winners were chosen by the children of each room: John Felleman and David Reale represented the third grade; Horace Hall and Larry Laury, fourth; Dallas Adams and Jan Cordisco, fifth; and Dolores Kaizer and Brook Norris, sixth grade.

Pupils of fifth and sixth grades of Tullytown with their teacher, Mrs. George Colville, participated in the health program at Edgely school under leadership of the school nurse, Mrs. Baird. A health film was shown to the girls of the fifth and sixth grades. The boys enjoyed an impromptu game of touch football. The visitors bowed to the Edgely team to the score of 24-0.

General School News

Final games of the Bristol township elementary touch football teams were played on Saturday with the following results: Edgely won over the Jr. High team by a score of 2-0; Newportville won on a forfeit over Maple Shade by a score of 1-0; and Laurel Bend played Croydon to a 0-0 tie.

Newportville won the championship with 3 wins and 1 tie.

The final standings are as follows:

W. L. T. Pts.

While election returns were coming in all over the country Nov. 7th, they were also coming in in homeroom 24 at Delhaas high school. A few weeks before, J. E. Sparks, faculty adviser for the homeroom, had suggested that this year's election for homeroom president and vice president be operated as closely as possible on the national method of securing a president.

Planning for a convention, the homeroom students formed themselves into parties. The people who had come into Delhaas from some other school not in the township were members of the Delhaas party; those from Edgely school were in Edgely party; students from Croydon would be in the Croydon party; persons coming from Laurel Bend would be in the Laurel Bend party; and those from the Maple Shade and Newportville schools would be in the Maple Shade-Newportville party. Each group would have a president and a vice president that it would nominate at the convention.

On the day of the convention, which was presided over by Robert Kaizer and Alma Kennedy, secured from another homeroom so that 10-11-24 students would not have to lose their right to vote by acting as chairmen, the following nominations were made: "Trudy" DeKoyser and Donald Biggs, president and vice president from Edgely; George Conn and Joseph Garrity from Laurel Bend; Lester Gibbs and Margaret Crawford from Maple Shade-Newportville; "Jack" Gleason and Marlene Barth from Croydon; and Francis Schade and Alex Kislewski from Delhaas.

As the first round of voting began, Edgely, Laurel Bend, and part of Delhaas switched their votes to the Maple Shade nominees, with the remaining Delhaas members going over to Croydon candidates.

On the final ballot, Lester Gibbs and Margaret Crawford, of Maple Shade emerged victorious.

In the second half of the convention, to determine which group would oppose the Maple Shade party, George Conn and Joseph Garrity, Laurel Bend nominees, won.

Another homeroom period was devoted to campaign speeches made by the two opposing parties, and on November 7, ballots were cast to determine the officers for the year. George Conn was elected as president, with Joseph Garrity, his running mate, winning election as vice president. Following his election, George Conn selected the following secretaries: "Jack" Gleason, treasurer; "Trudy" DeKoyser, state; Eleanor Gilmore, interior; Margaret Crawford, labor; Kay Crawford, publicity; Jean Millington, foreign minister.

DOUBLEHEADER

COQUILLE, Ore. — (INS) — An anonymous Coquille hunter tells this story. He fired at a four-point buck and the animal fell behind a log. Then the buck jumped up and he fired another shot at it. The buck fell from sight only to pop up and be put down again by a third shot. Behind the log the hunter found two four-point bucks—both dead.

Drainage, Road Problems Present "Growing Pains"

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 16—When Morrisville borough council met in the council hall, Tues. evening, it faced what one member termed "growing pains" as drainage and road problems were topics of discussion.

Several property owners from Hillside avenue presented complaints that the water culvert on that street is in a state of disrepair, and that a heavy rainfall would be sufficient to wash the culvert away. Creek drainage in the watershed land originates from the Burgess pond, it is said. A. J. Lanning, consultant engineer, presented plans for a new concrete reinforced culvert. Under the proposed plans, a water pipe would be run down Hillside ave. to a catch basin on Maple st., the drainage then being conducted to the canal. Lanning stated that with an estimated cost of $6,500, the new culvert could be built, alleviating the existing water condition. The project could be completed in 25 working days, Lanning said.

Elmer E. Whittaker, Crown st., stated that the same creek has eaten eight feet into his property, and requested that a retaining wall, sufficient to protect his land, be constructed. The council voted to hold a special meeting on Nov. 27 when a detailed study of all drainage problems will be made.

Request was made for improvement of Osburn ave. from Lafayette to Hardings sts. It was reported that homes constructed on the street cannot be occupied until the road is filled in and improved.

UN Troops Gain Up To Three Miles

Correspondent Bernard Kaplan, added up to nearly three miles. On the inland wing of the Chongchon bridgehead, U. S. First Cavalry Division troops pressed forward nearly two and a half miles along their entire sector Thursday after getting heavy Red artillery and mortar fire through Wednesday night.

First Cavalry patrols entered the key road center of Yongbyon, 12 miles northeast of Pakchon. The latter city, occupied by the British Commonwealth Brigade, was found to have been half destroyed in a battle which had swirled in and around it for 10 days.

Pakchon lies seven miles north-northwest of Anju where the only serviceable bridge spanning the Chongchon crosses that river northward.

Eighteen miles west of Pakchon is the big rail-highway junction city of Chongju where the principal western route to Manchuria's Yalu river frontier branches off into two railroads and paralleling highways.

Word of increased Red resistance along the 10th Corps front in north-east Korea came from INS War Correspondent John Rich in a field dispatch at 5:40 Thursday (3:40 a. m. EST.).

Rich said enemy forces were even attempting amphibious attacks with small boat landings on the eastern beaches below Chongjin that struck at the hard-pressed South Korean Capitol Division and menaced the flank of the U. S. Seventh Division.

The Seventh Division, closest of all the UN forces to the Manchurian border, ran into Communist troops that fought back Thursday with tanks, artillery and mortars.

But the Seventh's GIs, battling in zero or near-zero temperatures over icy terrain, expanded their Ugni bridgehead, pounding up to one point 4,000 yards, or nearly two and a half miles, north of the river.

In that area, dotted with prized hydroelectric reservoirs and plants, the Americans were only about 25 air miles south of the nearest portion of interior Korea's northern Yalu boundary adjoining China's Manchuria.

The U. S. Army division was attacking Chinese and Korean Communist troops well-entrenched on rugged heights.

To the southwest of the Seventh's sector, parka-wearing troops of the American First Marine Division pushed warily up both sides of the giant Changjin reservoir, on the alert for expected enemy counter-attack.

Many miles behind the Leather-necks' forward units, a buildup of Communist strength was reported west of Marine-occupied Kotori. This portended a possible enemy drive from the interior in an attempt to cut the First Marine Division's supply lines.

On the northeast seaboard, some 90 miles southwest of the Russian Siberian border, the ROK (Republic of Korea) Capitol Division managed to plug up holes torn in its line by two reinforced Red Regiments.

"Atmosphere" is "Cleared" On The Site for School

was felt that possibly Woods School pupils might be subjected to ridicule. Other reasons for not wishing to sell were listed as follows: 1. The Woods School would be denied ready access from one piece of its property to another; 2. The Woods School "is currently contributing 10 per cent of the taxes paid in Langhorne borough, and if the property in question were taken over by the school board the town would be denied that revenue;" 3. When the public school board informed The Woods School that the former wished the property in question, The Woods School had a survey made of other sites in the area for benefit of the board, and recommended purchase of one of those properties.

Mr. Lewis, public school director, in taking the floor, stated that most of the other sites were too small, adding that approximately 50 acres are needed. He said that most of the negotiations must, of necessity, be private, and that it was therefore difficult to report to P. T. A. He stated the board is doing all possible to secure a suitable site, and does not wish to take recourse to law.

P. T. A. officials made it clear they are not taking "sides" in the issue, but had merely suggested the P. T. A. meeting as a place for free and open discussion of the subject, and as a means of setting many rumors at rest.

A merchandise prize valued at $5 went to Gloria Mack. The first 10 persons on their feet to take part in discussions were awarded 10 smaller prizes.

DISCOVERIES

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Talent scouts seem to be lurking around the oddest places these days. Adam William, a soda jerk at a Beverly Hills drug store, was signed for a role in "Queen for a Day." Mary Murphy, a real cutie, was discovered wrapping bundles in a department store. She makes her film debut with Laurence Olivier and Jennifer Jones in "Carrie."

Encourage Child's Earliest Impulse to "Help Mother"

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

BEGIN early to teach your child to take responsibility. As soon as the baby wants to get his arm in or out of his nightie, patiently encourage his cooperation. In like manner, welcome warmly his earliest efforts at picking himself up after falling, washing his own hands, pulling the covers up over himself in bed, feeding himself, getting a drink of water for himself, combing his own hair, dressing himself, cleaning up things he has dropped or spilled, building with blocks, scribbling, coloring or drawing or making up imaginary yarns. Let him answer questions others put to him. Don't "butt in" on his conversation with a guest. In case you have not let him do such things when he has been able to do them, don't be too sudden in your change; the shock might be hard on his little heart.

Normally the tot likes to "help mother," to follow her about the house with his little broom, carpet sweeper or dust cloth. At four or five he likes to help set the table, carry things from it to the kitchen, stand on a box or chair and help to wash or wipe dishes. Then is the time to capitalize on his urge to help. But when he does things, don't look for perfection. Show appreciation of his development.

Strong Approval

As you desire this little child to do things for you, ask him rather than command him. Let him choose then, as if he were an adult, whether to accede or not. Show strong approval when he does accede to your request. Say "fine big boy," or "fine big girl." Basic principles involved in winning such cooperation are discussed in my bulletin, "Stubbornness," (to be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper).

Some parents assign jobs to the child when he is too young to profit from such requirement or from punishment for his failure to do these jobs. They would be wiser to trust to positive suggestion for getting the youngster to cooperate and help. Even in such matters as hanging up his hat and other clothes, or putting away his blocks, the child three or four may gain in responsibility faster if he is induced patiently to do these things. He may properly be required these little chores at certain regular times when he is six, seven or older.

Required Job

Before you first assign a required job, get into good working order such requirements as his coming in from the street on signal. This should be well accomplished at six. Try to make the rest of the evening pleasant, but let the child know that failure to come in on time will be met with an effective penalty (such as sitting in a chair unamused for thirty minutes). Apply like measures to his going to bed at a regular time. Don't talk; act.

Assign jobs very gradually. Begin with just one. Add no others till this one is done regularly for at least two weeks without your telling him until he does it. Let each job added be something he can do well at a regular time each day. Don't expect him to hang around just to help you when you happen to think of something for him to do. Let him know what time each day he can count on as free for play, when, except for extreme emergency you would not ask him to do a special task. Do not consider your having forgot something at the grocery as an emergency. If you forget something, go for it yourself unless he chooses on his own accord to go, or you hire him, to help you out. (My bulletin, "How Teach Your Child To Help at Home" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper).

More on this Monday.

Old Penna. Canals Will Be Subject of Address

POINT PLEASANT, Nov. 16 — Dr. Hubertis Cummings, research consultant of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of the Delaware Valley Protective Association on November 24 in Point Pleasant community hall.

Dr. Cummings, professor of English, emeritus, of the University of Cincinnati, will speak on old Pennsylvania Canals, about which he is at present writing a book. In delving into the history of the Delaware Division Canal, Dr. Cummings will interview old-time bargemen. "We plan to have many of these old-timers with us that evening," said Mrs. Wilmot C. Arey, president of the organization, "and would welcome many more, since they are all entitled to become honorary members of the D.V.P.A."

The public is invited to attend this "Then and Now" meeting which will be held at eight p. m.

RECIPES

TUNA CURRY ON "GRITS"

1 can "bite-size" Tuna
1 cup hominy grits
2 cups milk
2½ teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon curry powder
To four cups boiling water add

1½ teaspoons salt and the hominy grits. Cook in double boiler for one hour.

To make curry sauce, melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 4 tablespoons flour. When a paste is formed add the milk, curry powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cook until well blended and add tuna. Put hominy grits in a large vegetable dish, pour over it the tuna-curry sauce and serve. Or, serve the grits and hominy in separate dishes and let each person help himself.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By Al Spivak
INS Penna. Farm Editor
HARRISBURG, Nov. 16.—(INS)—Noordhuis, a Netherlands farm youth, is getting a good look at Pennsylvania farm life as the third "grass roots" ambassador from abroad this year.

He is a delegate of the international farm youth exchange projects which has a goal of development of good will through better understanding.

Arrangements for his tour have been made by the agriculture extension service and are under the supervision of C. P. Lang, of Pennsylvania State College, and extension agriculture agents throughout the state.

Lang, in charge of older rural youth activities in the extension service, has announced that Noordhuis will spend some time on the farm of Harry Roth, of Nazareth, R. D. 1, in Northampton county. Later he will tour Jefferson and Snyder counties.

The 20-year-old youth lives on a 300-acre farm and has completed two years of agriculture college work. Prior to coming to Pennsylvania he was in Kansas.

During his visit, he will observe American farming methods and a member of his host farm families, will learn the American language and customs. On his return to the Netherlands, he will tell fellow students of the impressions gained in America.

visited Pennsylvania in the same capacity during the past summer. Frank T. Murphy, head of the forestry extension division at Pennsylvania State College, retired October 31 after a lifetime spent in developing better woodlot programs for Pennsylvania farmers.

Except for two years in the U. S. army with the A.E.F. in World War I, Murphy devoted most of his time since being graduated from Penn State in 1914 to forestry work. During the First World War he was in timber supply with the 20th Engineers.

From the time he joined the agricultural extension service in October, 1926, until his retirement, Murphy plugged good woodlot management as an important part of farm programs.

A marked increase in forest tree planting reflected his interest in reforestation. He boomed Christmas tree raising until now Pennsylvania leads all other states in their production.

Retirement will not mean an end to his forestry career but rather an opportunity to realize a long-cherished dream. As Murphy puts it: "to practice what I've been preaching."

Murphy will spend his days on a Warren County farm which he owns and where 27 years ago—as his first extension activity—he assisted the county agricultural agent in establishing a forest tree planting and management program. The trees still stand and Murphy plans to add many others.

Small Fry Will Be Very Happy With Unusual Toys

Many of Lower Bucks County's small fry will be mighty happy with the toys they'll receive this Christmas. According to Toy Guidance Council, Inc., the American toys produced this year show more ingenuity in design than ever before.

For example, there are dolls with changing facial expressions, musical carpet sweepers that actually work, western style "chuck wagons," electric chromatic organs, fire engines replete with realistic mechanical detail, moving shooting galleries—yes, even an atomic energy laboratory.

These are just some of the 200 U. S. made toys voted outstanding by an impartial committee of experts, and all of these amusing new playthings are included in the 1950 edition of the Toy Yearbook, annual publication of Toy Guidance Council, Inc. In this area, the store selected by Toy Guidance Council for this purpose is Nichols-Cameras & Kiddieland, Mill st.

DELHAAS JAYVEES END SEASON; BEAT MORRISVILLE XI

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 16 — Delhaas Junior Varsity closed its 1950 gridiron season yesterday with a rousing 32-12 win over the Morrisville Jayvees on the Robert Morris field.

Joe Muth accounted for three of the Delhaas scores on runs of 80, 60, and seven yards. He also converted two of the extra points on place-kicks. The other Delhaas touchdowns were made by Bob White on a 35-yard run and Jack Gleason who broke loose after a center plunge and ran 15 yards for the TD.

Delhaas countered with eight first downs to Morrisville's six.

Score by quarters:
Morrisville 0 12 0 0-12
Delhaas 7 0 13 12-32
Referee, Kneelie, umpire, Erb; head linesman, Wurlow.

Ask Public Support In "Toy for Tot" Project

NEWTOWN, Nov. 16 — The American Legion auxiliary of Morrell Smith Post 440 met in the Legion home, Monday evening, with Mrs. Charles Swartz, Jr., president in charge.

Mrs. Ella McIntyre, chaplain, offered a Thanksgiving prayer.

Mrs. James Dawson, rehabilitation chairman, asked that the public join in the drive for a "toy for a tot" in Europe for Christmas. Donations for the veterans at the Valley Forge hospital of old radios, toilet articles for women will be welcome, also, 1800 veterans from Korea are expected at the hospital before Christmas.

$10 was donated from the Treasury for the kitchen equipment fund Neshaminy Valley youth center.

Members were reminded of the Thanksgiving dance in Langhorne Legion country club, Nov. 21th.

decided to hold the Christmas party at Penn Manor club, on Dec. 12th, with the following committee in charge: Mrs. Helen Nichols, Mrs. William Swangler, Mrs. Stanley Carlen, Mrs. Lewis Green, Mrs. John Walterick.

The Christmas party for the school children will be held in the fire station, no date decided upon as yet. It will be a community affair, with different organizations of the community donating.

Plans were made for a card party for Dec. 6th in the school building, with Mrs. Doris Kaiser, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. Augustus Gross, Mrs. Theresa Clay in charge.

Miss Margaret Faughnan's room was awarded the attendance banner, and the "Black Pig" received by Mrs. Stella Cola.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lewis Green and Mrs. Stanley Carlen.

agency, at the same time recounting the history of their regency.

Past regents present were: Mrs. Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, Doylestown; Mrs. J. Herman Barnsley, Newtown; Mrs. W. Carlisle Hobensack, Jenkintown; Mrs. William G. Herridge, Doylestown.

Mrs. Harriet Tomb, Langhorne, sent a paper which was read by vice-regent Mrs. Frederick Clymer, Doylestown; Mrs. Warren S. Ely, Doylestown, unable to be present, sent a paper which was read by Mrs. Isaac VanArtsdalen, as was the history of the regency of the late Mrs. Samuel L. Paxson.

The committee on arrangements included: Mrs. Barnsley, Newtown; Mrs. Frank Devlin, Langhorne; Mrs. J. C. Usilton, Mrs. Frank B. Fabian and Mrs. Robert Baker, Newtown; and Mrs. Franklin Washburn, Furlong.

Later the group moved down

State street to the Justices house where Mrs. Loughery presented a plaque to Mrs. Barnsley, who was instrumental in planning for this marker during her term of office, 1938-1941.

Edward R. Barnsley gave a history of the Justices house, which was so named when the justices of the supreme court sat in Newtown. During the time when the circuit court moved around, the justices stayed overnight in this house. General Lord Sterling, who lived from 1726-1783, stayed there for two weeks after the Battle of Trenton. Previously, General Sterling had stayed in the Thompson-Neely House, when he had charge of collecting the boats for General Washington.

The words on the plaque presented read: "Justices House. This Colonial Inn built 1768 by Anthony Siddons became the headquarters of the American General William Alexander (Lord Sterling) after the battle of Trenton, December 26, 1776. Bucks County Chapter 1950."

Your New Social Security

If You Work for Yourself

Do you work for yourself or own your own trade or business? If so, your earnings may insure monthly payments for you and your family when you retire and monthly payments to your family when you die.

Under the new social security law, your net income from self-employment after Jan. 1, 1951, will count toward social security benefits if it is $400 or more a year.

These Earnings Will Come Under Social Security:

Here is a list of some of the different kinds of trades and businesses in which your earnings will count toward old-age and survivors insurance payments:

Operating a store beauty parlor filling station barber shop bar jewelry shop laundry	pharmacy theatre hotel flower shop taxi tailor shop tourist court	printing shop photographic studio advertising agency second-hand shop shoeing stand manufacturing plant real estate agency, etc.
Working for yourself as a writer photographer appraiser adjuster artist	private teacher sign painter private detective independent contractor

(Partners in a business are considered as self-employed.) If You Work for Someone Else and Also Own Your Own Business:

You will receive credit for both your self-employment income and the wages paid to you by your employer, up to a total of $3600 a year. Your earnings from self-employment will count only if they amount to $400 or more in a year.

These Earnings Do Not Count Toward Social Security Payments:

Earnings of less than $400 a year in self-employment.
Earnings over the first $2600 in any year.

Regardless of the amount, your income cannot be counted toward social security benefits if your earnings from self-employment as a farm operator, physician, lawyer, dentist, osteopath, chiropractor, optometrist, naturopath, veterinarian, architect, certified public accountant, licensed or registered accountant, full-time practicing accountant, Christian Science practitioner, professional engineer, funeral director.

(If you are employed by someone else in any of the above professions your wages will be counted for social security purposes. Self-employment as sole owner or as a partner in the professions listed above is not counted toward social security benefits.)

Your earnings from real estate will not count toward social security benefits unless you are in the real estate business. Your income from personally-owned stocks or bonds will not count for social security purposes.

What Should You Do?

- (1) If you have never had a social security card, you should get one at your social security office before you file your income tax return in 1952.
- (2) If you have lost your card, you should ask for a copy. If there is no social security office near where you live, ask at your post office for an application blank. You should have only one social security card.
- (3) If you have self-employment income that will count toward social security benefits, you should make a report of your earnings and pay your social security tax when you file your federal income tax return for 1951 (due in 1952). A social security report form will be a part of your income tax blank. Your social security tax on your self-employment income will be 2 1/4 per cent through the year 1953.

If you have any further questions, write your Social Security Office at 3207 Kensington Ave., Philadelphia 34, Pa.

Tells How Quaker Faith Applies To Education

NEWTOWN, Nov. 16.—The monthly meeting of the Parents Association, Friends School, was held in the school, Monday evening, with 90 present. Fred Roth, Morrisville, presided.

George A. Walton, principal emeritus of George School, spoke on "Quaker Faith and How It Applies in Education." An interesting question and answer period followed.

Mrs. George Otto and Mrs. Joseph A. Corwin had an exhibit of books.

Mothers of first graders were hostesses for the evening.

Mr. Roth appointed the following committees for the year: Student activities, Mrs. Martin Golub, Mrs. Robert Lehen, Mrs. Grace Baker, Mrs. J. Hibbs Buckman, Mrs. Walter Evans, Mrs. Charles T. Shane, Mrs. Martin W. Heddan, Mrs. James A. Corwin, Mrs. Fred Scull, Mrs. E. Gordon McRath, Mrs. Richard McFeely, Mrs. Harry Snellenburg; program, William Bradley, Arthur Brinton, Allen Franklin, Mrs. Richard McFeely, Mrs. Harry Snellenburg, Mrs. John Wolf.

Everybody Seems Out to Get The Poor, Poor Pedestrians

By Bob Seitz

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
DENVER, Nov. 16—(INS)—Minding one's own business is rather difficult these days, especially if that business is being a pedestrian.

The poor foot-citizen is likely to receive much unsolicited advice from passing motorists, most of the advice being to get out of the way or "cancha look where yer goin'."

Then too, as you hoof it down the street there are also the risks of being afoot. These range from being "uplifted" by a taxi or tram car to being the chief item in a teen-age game of "pedestrian polo."

All of this simply adds to the ulcer and high blood pressure rate, not to mention the accident and death rates.

Most cities have crosswalks marked off for the benefit of the walkers. These are handy for the motorist to inch into in order to get a head start on the guy behind him.

So, this crafty denizen of the gasoline age mooches up into the crosswalk, forcing the pedestrians to walk around his car, and sometimes in front of traffic.

This sometimes results in one or more citizens being smacked by a car, bus, tram or taxi.

One breed of pedestrian hater is the "Amber-dog." This character can be identified by his wild look, itchy right foot and jumpy accelerator.

When the traffic light turns amber, he's not one of those "foolish" people who wait for the green—oh no—he guns his vehicle and curses at the pedestrians who have not yet reached the curb.

The Amber-Dog has more than one trick in his bag though. He's not caught napping when the light changes as he approaches the intersection. Like some sort of light-sensitive dog, Amber means speed to him, and so he does, just crossing the intersection as the light turns red.

He smiles happily as the foot citizen's barrels for cover, and sighs contentedly as he contemplates arriving at home to read his son's latest comic book.

The pedestrians aren't taking all this sitting down, however, far from it.

In Denver some time ago a motorist took the right of way from a bewildered elderly pedestrian, almost knocking said citizen from under his bowler hat.

The hoover, picking himself and his heavy metal headed cane up from the pavement, then proceeded to beat out the motorist's headlights. This done, the cane wielder drew himself up to the proper height for a lofty sneer, sneered and walked on.

While this was going on an astonished patrolman reached for his little book by reflex action and handed the steaming motorist an invitation to drop around to police court in a day or so.

In another incident, a motorist had just missed crushing a woman against a pole. The woman was carrying an ice cream cone, and she quietly walked up to the car and quished the delicacy into the driver's face.

One burly character, who resents being the target for a hot-rod manned by a teen-ager, plucked said to get across the street for a "Bargain day." It may be a tired businessman with only 20 minutes for lunch, but in any case, the jay walker zooms from between two parked cars and streaks for the other side.

In this event, the bargain day turns out to be wondering how to get the doctor to cut his bill, and in the instance of the businessman, a series of lunches in his hospital room.

People walking against the lights are also hazards to themselves and humanity. This type of walking may be of the absent minded wandering type or the cool egotistical

"I dare ya to hit me" variety, again with the cast room in the receiving hospital looming in the background.

It all adds up to hiked insurance rates, some interesting cases for the medics and now and then a flurry of tombstone sales, but still this traffic goes on.

Considers Categories, Juvenile Court Cases

ANDALUSIA, Nov. 16 — Bensalem Rotary club met on Tuesday in Kings Hall, with approximately 35 attending. President Henry Anderson, Eddington, was in charge.

Plans were made for a banquet to be given, Dec. 4th for Bensalem high school football team.

John Brennan, Oakford, introduced the speaker of the evening, Willard Curtin, Morrisville, District Attorney of Bucks County, who addressed the group on "Juvenile Delinquency."

He divided juvenile court cases into three categories, namely dependent children, those whose parents or guardians are financially unable to provide for them; neglected children, including those whose parents do not take proper care of them, especially in broken homes or where both parents are working; delinquent children, those who violate rules of society in a serious manner.

He mentioned three main causes of juvenile delinquency: Social misfits, those who have no friends and thus get into trouble; inferiority complex children, who because of physical handicaps are not accepted by society; "bad children, who are going to give trouble no matter what their advantages."

Mr. Curtin placed the blame for most juvenile delinquents on parents, who make no effort or do not know how to plan or organize a real home for their children.

He quoted the following statistics of Bucks Co. juvenile court record: 1949—70 dependent children, 26 neglected children and 44 delinquent ones, 1950 (to Nov. 1st)—83 dependent children, 38 neglected children, and 48 delinquent ones.

STATE INDUSTRIAL INVESTMENT HIGH

Exceeds All Other States In The Country In Expansion

STEEL OUTPUT IS HIGH

Prepared for The Courier by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce.

Pennsylvania's Industrial Expansion

It is well known that in the only actual count of the expenditures for industrial expansion made during the past ten years, Pennsylvania exceeded all other states in the nation in the investment of its productive industries in new plants and equipment. This record of actual expenditure, as compiled by the United States Census for the year 1947, was a source of gratification to the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, which had also collected from the State's manufacturers data which led to the conclusion that business growth in the Commonwealth was proceeding more rapidly than that in the nation as a whole.

In what direction has this plant expansion occurred? The Census gives a precise answer to this question. Pennsylvania, which has led the nation in its output of iron and steel for more than a hundred years, is showing a justified confidence in the future of one of its most fundamental industries. The largest expenditure for new plants and equipment during the last census year, 1947, was in the primary metal industries, when $105,517,000 was invested in the expansion of facilities which already were out-producing all nations in the world but our own.

That Pennsylvania's steel capacity and production are pointing toward an even greater dominance in the national picture is confirmed by other evidence, particularly the decision of the nation's greatest steel company to erect in Pennsylvania another large steel mill to process South American ore.

Pennsylvania's second most important expenditure for increased plants and equipment, as reported by the Census, was in equipment for the processing of food, an industry which employed more than 103,000 workers. Nearly fifty million dollars invested in this industry's expansion in 1947 indicates a growth which will insure increased importance of food processing in the State's industrial picture.

The third most important expansion, according to the census report, was in the production of petroleum and coal products. In the eastern half of the United States, Pennsylvania's great oil refineries lead in the production of gasoline and lubricants, and additional great expansions have occurred or are in prospect since the census canvass was made in 1947.

Textile manufacturers were fourth in their expenditures for additional plants and equipment. In this industry, the State is first in the nation in many lines, including full-fashioned hosiery, broadloom silk, rayon and nylon fabrics, shirts, work clothes, knitted goods and lace curtains.

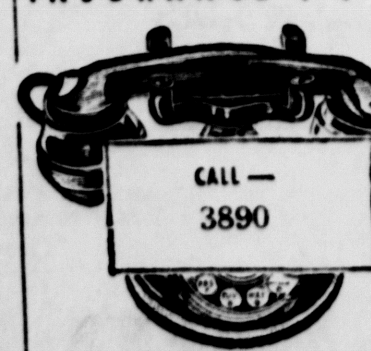

Fifth in expenditures for new capacity was the chemical industry, a field of great importance to the State since so much of the raw materials for chemical processes are produced in vast quantity both in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia areas.

Since we are now suddenly embarked on a national program which will tax every available industrial facility in the United States, it is good to know that, because of the constant growth in industrial capacity, Pennsylvania is in a position to duplicate and to exceed the great productive record made during the Second World War.

Fortune smiles on those who make a habit of reading Courier Want Ads.
